The Band, Slide Rock

This month's concert in the 2nd Floor Fireside Room features Winston Norrish and Chris Malek from the band, Slide Rock. As for the name, they chose 'Slide Rock' because of its musical meaning as well as its reflection of their local ties to the Sedona area.

Winston and Malek met in 2021 after both of their families moved to Sedona. They began playing as Slide Rock later that year.

"Our catalog is the songbook of our lives with music from the '60s through the present day, reflecting the many places we've lived: Texas, Louisiana, Ohio, Michigan, Washington, Europe, Canada, and of course, Arizona," says Chris. "While many of the groups we play are familiar, for the most part we pull from their deeper catalog rather than just their best-known hits, and we gravitate to songs where we can focus on vocals. People who watch us perform will hear some familiar tunes, but most will also leave having heard something new. That's the mix we shoot for."

Chris has spent the past decade playing guitar and singing in various groups in Texas and Arizona, performing a variety of rock, pop, folk, and country.

Winston has been playing and performing ever since discovering his mom's dusty guitar under a bed as a kid. "She just gave me the guitar and started driving me to lessons at a shop where bluegrass was the only thing. I learned a ton from those guys, and when I became a teen, I got an electric guitar and joined a band." Before moving to Sedona, Winston worked in several bands in Central Washington and Seattle and recorded two albums with the band Norrish Reaction at Seattle's famed London Bridge Studio.
